

WHAT WE LIKE

SHAKE JUNT CHICKEN WAX

The Colonel's secret recipe has nothin' on what the homeys over at Shake Junt have been cookin' up. Greasy enough to slide through any ledge in town. Grab a bucket and go wild. But as a general warning, don't do blunts to the point where you forget it's just wax.—Kevin Duffel shakejunt.com

V.I.O. POV HD CAMERA

Point Of View cameras, like those we used in Hallelujah, have been lacking LCD screens and this one offers just that. It comes attached with the widest POV fisheye lens made so far. You can bet I'll for sure mount this to the bottom of my board and other places for the next TransWorld vid!—Chris Ray vio-pov.com

VOLCOM PUFF PUFF GIVE JACKET

Ever found yourself sleeping on the hard-ass floor of a crappy hotel room during a skate trip? Yeah, shit sucks, especially when you wake up with a super stiff neck 'cause you were last to call dibs on pillows. Well, this jacket solves that problem wherever you decide to crash.—Kevin Duffel volcom.com

ANALOG DYLAN WHEEL WASH DENIM

Making denim's a serious art form, but who knew the secret to the perfect wash would come from those four wheels beneath your plank? Apparently Analog did, and that's why they used real skateboard wheels to create the fades for their new wheel wash denim line.—Kevin Duffel analogclothing.com

PAYDAY DAVID GONZALEZ

If you stacked up all this product from Flip, Independent, Mob, Volcom, CCS, and Globe, it'd probably stand taller than David Gonzalez. That isn't to say that the all-terrain killer from Colombia's short, but with a whole damn year's supply of David's new shoe, the Heathen, this pile of gear would probably stand taller than both Jack and his beanstalk combined. Check skateboarding.com on February 8 for details how to win. Get some!

PAY DAY WINNER

Our October Pay Day was with Ryan Deconzo. To win, you had to correctly guess Ryan's favorite part in the RDS/FSW/2002 video. The winner was Matthew Christensen.

